SHRINERS OF NATION MEET IN CLEVELAND

Thousands Gather in Ohio City for 57th Annual Convention.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 12.—(AP)—Cleveland was captured today by a red-tinted band of funmakers come to frolic during the 57th annual convention of the Shrine Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Thousands of gaily-garbed men alighted from special trains from all parts of the country and took to the town streets, already ablaze with American flags, and the red, yellow and green colors of the Shrine, into a sea of oriental grandeur.

Bands unlimbering themselves for five days of continuous tooting, and crack drill teams and chanting units added their maneuvering and vocalizing to the round of gaiety.

About half of the 30,000 expected to join in the convention festivities and many of the thousands of visitors who are expected to boost the transient population here during the next five days to 100,000, crowded the streets and indoor and outdoor places of amusement.

Bands and drill units garbed in combinations of red, yellow and green or red tuxedos, white pants and richly decorated vests, as well as legions of honor in black and white, gave unending variety to the pageant.

A carnival midway teemed with revelers at the gateway to the huge new Cleveland stadium, in which the annual uniformed parade will be concluded in a review by the imperial officials after a march through downtown streets Tuesday morning.

Imperial Potentate Esten A. Fletcher will review the parade and preside before presiding over the first business session of the imperial council.

Only about 800 delegates representing Shrines throughout the continent will participate in the business sessions, the other thousands of Shrines contributing to the pageant which will include band concerts and parades, numerous outings, boat rides, dinners, balls, a Mardi Gras and a spectacle in the stadium, "A Night in the Orient."

LEGAL OBJECTIONS AND BANKERS HALT DRASTIC MEASURES

National bank, one of the five largest banks in Germany and one of those under discussion by the conference, announced it would be compelled to close its doors today.

The announcement was accompanied by government assurance that all deposits in the bank would be guaranteed. Orderly liquidation of the bank's business was pledged by the government.

Stock Exchange to Close.

To forestall a possible reaction on the market, all stock exchanges were advised to close today and tomorrow.

An order had been issued previously by the Prussian ministry closing all exchanges in the state of Prussia for those two days.

When they adjourned this morning, the cabinet members planned to snatch a few hours sleep and resume their deliberations, hoping to prevent further distress among important banks and to issue emergency decrees along the general lines of those drawn up yesterday.

It was understood, however, that the government would compel Germany's entire list of banks mutually to guarantee one another.

This demand was strenuously opposed by the bankers at the long session, but with the Darmstadt bank closing its doors and the government assuming sole responsibility for liquidation, the remaining banks later seemed willing to bow to the government's demands, and to what seemed necessity.

The prospect was that they would assume the mutual guaranty asked, backed by the reich.

An indication of stormy and unexpected opposition that developed in the long night session is the fact that the meeting had been put into today Sunday evening, and were ready for release to the press so the German people might read them in this morning's paper.

At the last minute, however, the trouble developed and hour after hour went by without real news of what was happening in the conference. Suddenly the announcement came that the Darmstadt bank would close its doors today.

The German Monday morning papers had already gone to press, and in order to get the announcement before the public before banking hours today the Darmstadt bank had appealed to the semi-official Wolff bureau to get out placards. The news bureau had no cardboard suitable for placards, but its bank of communications on large flimsy sheets.

Fear prevailed in government circles during the early hours of this morning that the news of the closing of the Darmstadt bank, when it was learned by the public on the way to work, might lead to a general run on banks throughout the country.

FRENCH LEADERS STUDY LATEST GERMAN PLEA.

PARIS, July 12.—(AP)—A German appeal to America, Great Britain and France, asking immediate assistance to save Germany from financial chaos, was studied tonight by Premier Pierre Laval at his country place.

Foreign office officials refused, during the premier's absence from the city, to discuss the appeal. France might take it Germany defaulted on her obligations or if Adolf Hitler, leader of the German fascists, were to rise to the head of the government, succeeding Chancellor Heinrich Brüning. It was plain, however, that both these possibilities were considered close to the surface of events in Germany.

The French attitude might be summed up, it was indicated, in a certain aloofness, based on the opinion that Germany brought her present troubles on herself.

France offered money to help the Germans avert collapse; the Germans found the offer distasteful because France demanded political guarantees as the price of the loan. The attitude unofficially quarters now is to "let Germany work matters out for herself."

The Journal Des Debats bitterly assailed President Hoover today for proposals, which were viewed as doing irreparable damage to the Young plan.

"Confidence which had already been shaken by the German government itself in announcing a crash was imminent," said the journal, "has been completely killed by the Hoover maneuver. Hoover, in sabotaging the Young plan, enabled his compatriots to withdraw enormous quantities of money placed in Germany."

"He is responsible for what has happened; the richness and power of America will not prevent our saying so."

Many Foreign Students Stranded in America

ITHACA, N. Y., July 12.—(AP)—Scores of foreign students attending Cornell University are stranded here because their families, suffering under the depression, have little or no money to send them. Remedies have been sought, but only a fraction of their former values due to unfavorable rates of exchange.

Students from the Orient are hardest hit, because of the falling rate of Chinese exchange. Students who have been receiving $100 per month have been able to convert their letters of credit into less than $45 in American money.

FRENCH ARMAMENTS CUT TO 'MINIMUM'

BY RALPH HEINZ.

United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, July 12.—(UP)—A memorandum saying that the French army has been reduced to minimum compatible with security was forwarded to Geneva today in answer to a League of Nations questionnaire on disarmament.

The memorandum, to be published Friday, said France's army has been cut from 810,000 men in 1913 to a present strength of 317,000.

After the close of the World War France had reduced her army to 225,000 troops, the memorandum said, and it had been trimmed further by reducing the period of conscript service from three to two years.

The memorandum stressed the point that the French army was purely for defensive purposes, threatening no one and constituting "only a sufficient force to guarantee security—another guarantee in favor of European peace."

Limitation of armaments is desirable for France as well as for other nations, the memorandum went on. "France will not augment her military expenditures; on the contrary, she will do her utmost to reduce them."

France is in an unusual situation with extensive frontiers bordering the most powerful military powers, was emphasized. She has been subjected to two costly invasions during the last half-century.

French military chiefs are understood to be much more worried over the falling birth rate than over possible German production efforts at the Geneva conference.

seen as, above all others, able to withstand such emergencies—might have been the withdrawal of French troops from Berlin to weather the storm.

Government authorities were anxious to obtain early word of developments in the German situation. The reopening of banks and the stock exchange in Berlin tomorrow was awaited with anxiety, an attitude shared in London and other centers.

WORLD BANK LEADERS TO INTERVIEW AT GENEVA.

BASEL, Switzerland, July 12.—(AP)—Germany's grave financial plight brought the chiefs of big central banks to the World Bank meeting at Geneva today. The meeting of directors of the World Bank for International Settlements.

Silence of international bankers at the conclusion of a protracted discussion between G. W. McGraw, American president of the bank; French, Italian, Belgian and Japanese banking heads with Dr. Vocke, spokesman for Dr. Hans Luther.

It was understood that the bankers reviewed various possible measures designed to meet Germany's need for credit and to halt the flight of capital from the reich.

Tomorrow, with a full attendance of directors, excepting possibly Dr. Luther, president of the reichsbank, who had not arrived today, the question of Germany's financial situation will be taken up formally in hope that conservative remedial action may be agreed upon.

The atmosphere around the world bank headquarters tonight reflected the deep anxiety throughout the world over the fate of the reichsbank. The news which Hitler's government had heavy withdrawals of foreign exchange in Germany yesterday increased the feeling that the situation was menacing.

It was recognized that prompt action is necessary if Germany is to be saved from economic disaster before the Hoover debt plan can be put into effect.

U. S. HAS NO AUTHORITY TO INTERVENE, SAYS MILLS.

NEW YORK, July 12.—(AP)—John L. Mills, acting secretary of the treasury, in a statement tonight said through the president's debt suspension act the United States has no authority to intervene in the critical financial situation of Germany.

The statement was made in answer to a question by a New York Federal Reserve bank, and planned to return to Washington on a night train.

"The position of the United States government in the present phase of the German situation is clear. Through the President's debt suspension program the German government has been relieved of the critical financial situation due to its international obligations."

Over $400,000,000 has thus been made available for the rehabilitation of Germany industry and commerce during the period of the suspension of the payment on reparations account. That is the only direction in which our government has either the opportunity or the authority to intervene.

"It is, of course, well known that the government has no control over the foreign credit policies of the federal reserve banks and under a well-established and sound public policy they have been kept free from executive influence or interference."

"It should not be forgotten that the problem with which we are concerned today are fundamentally European problems and can best be solved through the initiative and concerted action of those who are closest to the situation."

Before Mr. Mills left his home for a Washington train he was asked: "Does your statement point the way for the federal reserve to act on its own responsibility or is it an indication the federal reserve will not act and a policy of total inaction?"

"No hidden meaning," he replied. "There is nothing ambiguous about my statement, and there is no hidden meaning. No attempt should be made to interpret it. It is a plain, simple statement issued to clarify the position of the government of the United States as to what it can do."

"The statement is not tied up with any conference of bankers. I cannot speak for the federal reserve or for individual banking groups."

In connection with the situation, the New York Times says measures by which the federal reserve may co-operate with the central banks of Europe in providing a credit of a large size for the reichsbank were discussed at a meeting of the New York Federal Reserve bank.

Observers Believe Benefits Of Debt Plan Will Be Lasting

Many Steps, Still Necessary in the Rehabilitation of German Finances, Sullivan Says.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—As respects the United States, one immediate interest in the European situation is whether the beneficial effect on the worldwide depression brought about by America's recent step about Germany may be relied upon to continue. The judgment of the best informed persons answers "yes" with practical unanimity. The same judgment is careful to point out that the crisis in Germany was merely the most serious of the recent aspects of the depression and that many others remain to be remedied or to right themselves. There is complete confidence that this will be done.

In the meantime, it is recognized that the rescue of Germany calls for some further steps. In spite of recent almost hysterical dispatches from Germany, it is felt that financial relief to that country from this stage onward has less need of the haste that accompanies emergency.

Germany's financial difficulties will be solved. The coming extensions of a further helping hand to Germany may be accompanied by action of self-help on the part of the German government and people. Germany's pending plea is for more money in addition to the financial relief already secured from the international community.

Headless, Nude Body Of Woman Discovered

DOWNTOWN, Pa., July 12.—(AP)—The headless, nude body of a woman was found buried beneath a mound of sand and stones near Brandywine creek, four miles from here, today.

Police said the woman apparently had been slain about three weeks ago. They estimated her age at about 30.

No clothing was found and the only possible clue to her identity were a bloodstained handkerchief and a woman's shoe lace, found near by.

GOODYEAR-ZEPPELIN CRASHES AND BURNS

KANSAS CITY, July 12.—(AP)—Breaking away from a ground crew during a windy and rain storm late today, the Goodyear-Zeppelin airship Mayflower crashed into high tension wires at the edge of the Kansas City municipal airport and burned.

Captain C. E. Brannigan, 35-year-old pilot of the ship, here on tour from Akron, Ohio, was seriously burned. R. H. Hobensack, co-pilot, was slightly burned in pulling Brannigan from the flaming wreckage. Two other members of the crew were bruised.

Hobensack said the ship, which carried no passengers, apparently caught fire when the gasoline lines were broken and the fuel ignited as the blimp crashed into the highly charged wires. The cabin of the ship was filled with non-inflammable helium.

Rainbow Division Veterans Gather in Macon for Reunion

Personnel of 42nd Coming From Many States for Convention.

MACON, Ga., July 12.—(AP)—Soldiers will gather here from near and far tomorrow, commemorating in peace their conquests of war and opening in festive spirit the thirteenth annual reunion of the valorous Rainbow division.

Although the reunion for which Macon has put on her patriotic dress of red and white and blue, will not open formally until Monday afternoon, early comers had arrived here tonight from a dozen states and the District of Columbia. Many veterans are expected tomorrow.

Father Francis P. Duffy, hero, friend and chaplain of the division, is scheduled to arrive Monday from New York. A message was received today that General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the United States army, will be unable to attend the convention. He was one of the war-time commanding generals of the Rainbow or 42nd division, but has been detailed by President Hoover to conduct the King of Siam on a tour of the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Major General Blanton Winslow, judge advocate general, also is already in Macon, formerly his home, and Major General John L. DeWitt, quartermaster general of the army, is scheduled to arrive Tuesday.

Major General Frank R. McCoy, commandant of the fourth corps area, will also come here for the convention, officials in charge of registration stated today.

From Many States. States represented by veterans who had registered tonight were California, Maryland, Alabama, Ohio, Virginia, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Florida, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Georgia. Four delegates had registered from the District of Columbia.

Colonel Cooper D. Winn Jr., president of the division association, who has already arrived here from New York, has invited Edgar R. Dunlap, national committee member and a member of the Georgia department of the American Legion, to attend the reunion.

Registration today was at the Hotel Danmore and Monday a registration desk will open at the Macon auditorium, where major events of the reunion will be held.

Colonel Winn will open the reunion formally at 3:30 Monday afternoon and the program calls for welcome addresses by Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. and Mayor Pro Tem. Herbert J. Smith. Colonel W. A. Cunningham will respond. Short business procedure will be concluded and that will be all of the formalities of the opening day.

A dance at the Macon auditorium at 9:30 o'clock Monday night will be the biggest social event of the three-day reunion.

Program for Women. Special activities planned for the women who are here will include a lawn party at 6:30 Monday evening at the women's clubhouse at Bacon's field. During the reunion the women's auxiliary of the division expects to perfect its national organization.

The auxiliary was recently organized here and Mrs. W. O. Kinney was elected president of Post No. 1. The auxiliary has taken active part in arranging entertainment for the visiting women as well as the veterans.

Concerts are scheduled to be played by the 22d and 24th infantry bands Monday morning and afternoon. Macon veterans are wearing their reunion uniform of white trousers, red shirt, white overalls cap, emblazoned with the Rainbow symbol, and blue ties. In this uniform they will participate in a parade forming at the auditorium at 3:45 Tuesday afternoon, and marching to the Rainbow division memorial on Coleman hill, where Rev. Father Duffy will deliver memorial exercises with Dr. J. J. Sammons, pastor of the Vineville Baptist church. Other activities for Tuesday include a stag banquet, a dance and buffet supper for women.

The final event of the reunion will be a barbecue at Central City park Wednesday afternoon.

MILLEDGEVILLE PAVING CASE IN COURT TODAY

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 12.—A case in which more than 100 citizens of this city challenge the legality of certain paving ordinances passed several years ago and under which the streets were paved, will be the first case to come to trial when Judge James B. Park, Greensboro, convenes the Baldwin superior court here Monday.

The case was taken to court because of the refusal of many citizens to pay for bonds covering payment for the street construction. The local citizens will be represented by Judge Henry Hammond, of Augusta.

Among other cases of the heavy civil and criminal docket is the "stocking murder case," in which Mac Crooms, Inez Temple and Robert Seay are charged with the murder of Edna Horton, 13-year-old youth, here last fall. This case, which is expected to last for at least a week, begins Monday, July 20.

Men's Bible Class at Tifton Baptist Raises Attendance From 40 to 604 Men in Campaign Covering Three Months

The men's Bible class of the First Baptist church of Tifton, with 604 attending, compared to 40, the average attendance three months ago.

TIFTON, Ga., July 12.—Three months ago the Men's Bible class of the First Baptist Church of Tifton had an average attendance of about 40. At the time H. B. Petty, a member, suggested that a campaign be launched to increase the membership.

The class was thereupon divided into two groups, with Mr. Petty captain of the "Reds" and George W. Coleman captain of the "Blues." Now the class has seen an attendance record of 604, with an average of 234 for the three-month period of April, May and June.

At the same time the attendance for the entire Sunday school increased, with the record mark of 1,038 being reached on June 14. The school attendance for the same three-month period averaged 624, compared to an average of 351 for the preceding three months.

The Rev. George C. Gibson is pastor of the church. I. D. Morgan is superintendent of the Sunday school, while Judge C. A. Christian is teacher of the men's class. I. W. Myers is president of the class.

Three different degrees are to be given to outstanding delegates at the conference. These degrees, which mark leadership and successful work, are known as "Green Hand," "Junior Farmer" and "Georgia Planter." The "American Farmer" degree is conferred upon outstanding delegates at the Kansas City congress.

The classwork of the boys, all of whom are officers in local Future Farmers chapters, is divided into four groups, as follows: Presidents, treasurers, secretaries and reporters, who will receive special training in these particular fields.

M. D. Mobley, state adviser, will instruct the presidents in parliamentary procedure and other duties pertaining to that office. The treasurers, under the tutelage of George H. King, itinerant teacher-trainer of teachers of vocational agriculture, will make a study of business methods of the organization and of thrift banks.

A course in news story writing, designed to aid the reporters of the local chapters in their publicity work, will be conducted daily by Paul W. Chapman, state director of vocational education. Secretaries of the various chapters will spend their time making a study of their secretarial duties. Mrs. M. D. Mobley, wife of the state adviser, will have charge of the instruction of this group.

Morning sessions are to be devoted to informal group discussions and classes. The afternoon and evening sessions are to be spent in recreational activities, such as picture shows, tours over the campuses of the Georgia State College of Agriculture and the University of Georgia, and historic spots in Athens, and initiation ceremonies.

A state public speaking contest, for winners in the four state districts, will be held during the conference, the winner of which will be given a free trip to the national Future Farmers congress to be held in Kansas City this fall, where he will participate in the final elimination of the $500, $300 and $200 prizes.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Cost of state government in Georgia per capita was less than any other state in the country in 1929, according to statistics made public today by the United States census bureau.

While the average for the country was $11.92, and the highest of any of the states was that of Nevada, $29.83, the cost to the average Georgia citizen for state government was only $6.02. Illinois was second with $6.82.

While the Georgia rates make the best showing in the country, they are nearly three times as high as they were in 1917, when the average rate per capita was only $2.27, while, however, was higher than that in either North or South Carolina in that year.

Adding to this showing made by the state in the cost of state government is the fact that the total of all revenues, receipts in Georgia per capita was the smallest in the United States, with the exception of Illinois and Mississippi, being only $9.68; while the average for the country was $17.06 in 1929.

INSTALLMENT II.
Henry could never accept as a matter of fact and everyday occurrence, the wondrous fact that Katie, the glamorous, the lovely, the gifted, loved him. It was a beautiful miracle, which shed its lovely light over his commonplace days; for Henry was perfectly aware that he was a commonplace mortal. He was more than aware that Katie wasn't.

Altogether Katie was not the sort of wife Henry had meant to marry—not the sort of wife his mother was to his father. Nor was she so strong as she should have been, for Katie had to move out of the world so worth looking at when her second baby was stillborn, in the fifth year of her marriage. She left Henry their first child, Samuel Forman Winstead, named after her father, and called Sam from the hour of his birth.

Two years after Katie's passing Caleb was called to his reward. He left his wife more than independent. Half his estate went to her with no strings to it, the other half, with the exception of a small legacy to his grandson, went to Henry. It was a good heritage.

The child, Sam, now in his grandmother's care, wasn't in the least like the Winsteads, but too to scalp was Katie's son. Now that Caleb was gone the child filled the woman's empty days. Her way of acknowledging her love for young Sam was to leave him everything she did possess. His grandmother's will made young Sam Winstead independently wealthy.

During the boy's minority Henry invested his fortune so soundly that every penny came home with compound interest. The making of money had become a fixed habit with Henry by this time, and it pleased him to triple Sam's inheritance—almost as if he were doing something that would please his mother and Katie. Henry was called a financier now, and people were very respectful to him. He was such a sound, safe man, a living link between him and the beloved who had left him. This kept him human.

Sam was sent to a boys' school in Charleston, an old school where he wore a uniform and was under military discipline, which taught him that virtue most sadly needed by American youth—obedience. The manly, generous, athletic youngsters were greatly liked by the mothers, aunts, cousins, and sisters of his classmates. They thought him a charming boy and made much of him.

Henry Winstead had always let Sam follow his own bent, and Sam emerged from prep with his own ideas of education and business and what he wanted in the way of both. He wished to study agriculture, and animal husbandry and agronomy and economics and such like. He chose to go to friendly and democratic Virginia Tech. Then he traveled over the western United States, Canada and Europe, studying, observing, and learning. He was young, intelligent, trained, ambitious, and had enough money. He had planned his work. Now he was ready to work his plan.

"Our place is eating its head off," he said to his father as they sat smoking after dinner one night a few weeks after his return. "I've been looking things over, and I find we've got some mighty fine land lying low—just the sort of land I'd buy if I had to buy land. I want to put that land under the plow."

His father studied the cigar he held in his fingers. After a somewhat lengthy pause, he said wistfully: "You really mean that, son? I'd hoped you'd come in the bank with me. In a little while you'd know the business. You'd be very influential. Sam, if you'd come in the bank and allow yourself to be—ah—guided by me for a while. Ah—how to train you to step into my shoes would be a very real happiness. After all, you're my only son."

Sam shook his head. "Dad, I'm sorry," he said regretfully. "We may as well settle the question once for all. I've told you all along that the only bank I'll ever give a hang for is a sand bank—with grass or clover on it preferably. You're a financier, but I'm an agriculturist—a farmer, if you like. I'm horns and hoofs by instinct."

"You like stocks," he went on. "I prefer stock—fine stock, blooded stock, the best breed; that's the only sort of stock I'd have. The sort I mean to have. Dad, I'm going to have a model dairy farm, and incidentally, I mean to teach this countryside what a thoroughbred herd, scientifically handled, means to it. I shall plant my own food and forage crops, naturally. Also, I mean to have prize poultry. I shall have the best help obtainable—trained men."

"It's as good a way as any I know of to lose a lot of money," said Henry unemotionally. "but you must do as you think best. I have made it a rule never to interfere. I have never tried to coerce or even to influence you unduly. I hoped—but then you are different. Sam, as your mother was—different. He lifted his kind eyes. "Besides, I couldn't very well interfere, even if I wanted to, which I don't," he added. "You are of age, and thanks to your grandmother you are independent."

"Go ahead and do what you please, son. It's your money you're spending, not mine," said Henry. "You'd have a better social standing and less physical labor, though, if you'd chosen my bank. What will all your college friends say—what d'ye think our neighbors, the Rutherford, will say for the stock—the best stock I can buy, nothing but the best. I mean to have a model place. I mean to supply butter and cream with pure milk, fine butter, fresh eggs. My cows will be champion milkers and butter producers; my hens will be champion layers."

"Go ahead and do what you please, son. It's your money you're spending, not mine," said Henry. "You'd have a better social standing and less physical labor, though, if you'd chosen my bank. I mean to supply butter and cream with pure milk, fine butter, fresh eggs. My cows will be champion milkers and butter producers; my hens will be champion layers."

"I know Colonel Rutherford very well," said Henry. He spoke defensively. "You saw that Henry admired the colonel."

"And you like him? I mean, aside from admiring his appearance?" asked Sam idly.

"I have found him a very fine man, though a worse head for business I have never seen. Aside from having no business sense whatever, he's all right—indeed, he's very likable," said Henry. He disliked to have anyone know that he secretly admired Col. Rutherford extravagantly, looked up to him, maybe even envied him a little, wistfully.

"Why don't you advise him to leave his ornamental head home during office hours?" asked Sam with youth's gay disrespect.

"I have strongly advised him against certain investments—I considered them unsound. On one or two occasions I have striven a point and begged him to avoid them, unless he could afford to lose a great deal of money without being injured—and I know he can't do that."

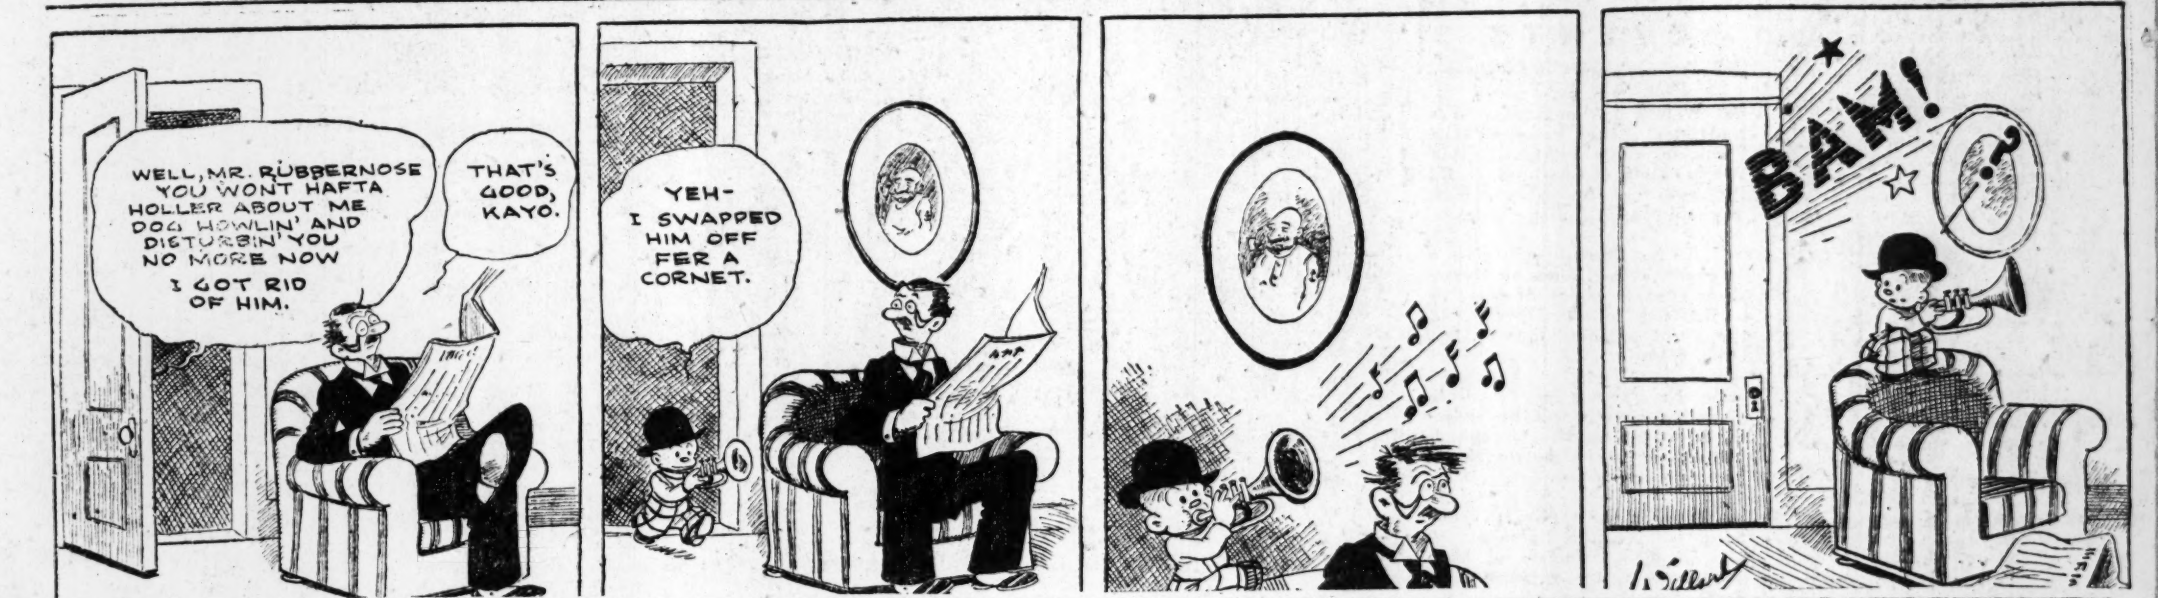

"Good Samaritan! Did the old boy heed?"

JUST NUTS

The Constitution's Weekly Business Review

EDITED BY M. D. GLEASON

There is hardly a need or a want that cannot be filled in Atlanta's stores and factories.

"A population of 500,000 by 1935" is Atlanta's slogan. Let's all pull together for a Greater Atlanta.

FILTERING SYSTEMS MANUFACTURED HERE

Among the varied manufacturers of Atlanta is included the making of filters and water purification systems. The three large pressure filters in use at the new swimming pool of the Venetian Athletic Club in Druid Hills, were made by Burford, Hall and Smith, 140 Edgewood avenue, who also installed the complete recirculating and sterilizing system, by means of which the water in this swimming pool is kept crystal clear and in a condition of purity equal to drinking water at all times.

This firm makes a specialty of manufacturing and installing water purification systems for all purposes, and among the recent swimming pool installations are, the Crystal Pool, the large municipal swimming pool of the city of Griffin, Ga., American Legion pool, Americus, Ga.; Coosa County Club, Rome, Ga.; Crystal Pool, Inc., Bristol, Va.; Riverside Military Academy, Gainesville, Ga. The Griffin pool, in addition to being one of the largest swimming pools in the state, recently received the honor of being the first public swimming pool to be rated 100 per cent in sanitation and safety by the authorities. There is an awakening on the part of the public to the dangers of transmission of disease in swimming pools that are not properly sterilized, and a demand for complete purification, in order that the bathers may enjoy the refreshment that comes from plunging into sparkling crystal clear water.

Mrs. John Hatley, also of Albemarle, sister-in-law of Hatley, died on way to hospital.

H. G. Dick, 30, of Albemarle, brother of Mrs. Luther Hatley, died in an Albemarle hospital without regaining consciousness.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Travis Hatley, Albemarle, brother and sister-in-law of Luther Hatley, were injured.

TWO SAILORS KILLED NEAR HAMPTON ROADS

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HEARS WETS FLAYED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12. (UP)—Addressing several thousand delegates to the International Society of Christian Endeavor convention here today, the Rev. Mark A. Matthews, Seattle, Wash., said the United States does not have the "advanced, efficient, mechanical and scientific age we now have and get along with breweries and distilleries."

He classified the foes of prohibition as those who desire to re-establish alcoholic business and the old time alcoholic life of America; those who desire to profit from re-establishing this business and those who are interested because of personal appetites.

CO-OP CHAIN STORES SHOW GREAT GROWTH

WASHINGTON, July 12. (UP)—Surprising growth of co-operative chain stores, which now almost equal the number of centrally-owned chain stores, was reported today by the federal trade commission to the senate.

Among grocery stores alone, the commission found there are 395 of these co-operative organizations under which 53,400 independently-owned storemen co-operate to reduce distribution costs of their merchandise. This compared with from 53,000 to 57,000 stores owned by various of the centrally-controlled grocery chains.

The co-operative chains were stated to have transacted from $900,000,000 to $700,000,000 worth of business in 1929, but only about two-thirds of this was with the co-operative members, as many of these also did business with non-member groceries.

The commission, submitting this partial report on chain stores in response to a senate resolution, called attention to "the emphasis which has frequently been placed upon the idea that the co-operative chain may be the salvation of the independent retailer."

The co-operative chains are of two types: One, an organization of retailers who advertise, function as their own wholesaler, collectively, and two, a group of independent retailers affiliated with a wholesaler for buying, advertising, and other activities.

The commission found that on the average an independent grocery owner paid $47.50 a year to belong to a retailer co-operative, and $84 to belong to a wholesaler-retailer co-operative.

The report showed that retailer co-operatives have concentrated on distribution of goods at low cost, and compared with the wholesaler-retailer co-operatives, expend much less in service and advertising.

The report said it was too early to decide which co-operative plan is the more effective in meeting competition, but that "each type might profit from the example of the other."

ATTORNEY IS HELD ON WIFE'S CHARGES

BERLIN, Md., July 12. (UP)—Chris Somers, 30-year-old Accomack county (Virginia) attorney, was forced into the role of defendant today as he was held under bond of $1,000 on a peace warrant sworn out by his wife and additional charges of disorderly conduct preferred by police. Hearing was set for July 18.

YOUTH CONFESSES KILLING EMPLOYER

CRANSTON, R. I., July 12. (UP)—Frederick S. MacMillan, 25, who was arrested as a fugitive Friday night at Ware, Mass., here held without bail for the grand jury today, after pleading guilty when arraigned in eighth district court on a charge of murdering his employer, Frederick B. Christians, with a hammer June 29.

He confessed he was in the items which furnished the chief source of contention between the opposing factions in congress during consideration of the last bill, but no important items on which no change was recommended are:

Fig iron, cherries, ultramarine blue, cheese, hides and skins, chimes, tomatoes, and hats, blocked and unlabeled.

The commission now is working upon 84 more articles, the report continued. Ten investigations concerning 33 articles have progressed to the hearing stages. Among the important items in this category are: Lumber, boots and shoes, cement, agricultural hand tools, vegetables and animal oils. Most of these items were bitterly contested in congress.

The 51 additional articles upon which investigations have progressed to the hearing stages yet, include:

Numerous vegetables, sponges, mackerel, feldspar, petroleum products, copper and cherries.

The cherries investigation was reopened on demand of the president who declared he declined the recommendation of the commission against a change in the duty of the Smoot-Hawley law.

Tariff Level Little Changed By Commission's Activity

12 Rates Are Cut But 10 Are Raised as Result of Extensive Hearings at Capital.

WASHINGTON, July 12. (UP)—President Hoover's promised revision of tariff law inequities through the new federal tariff commission has brought action in 22 cases, 12 rates of the Smoot-Hawley law being slashed and 10 increased up to July 1, the White House announced tonight.

In all 46 rates have been investigated and reported on, an average of about one a week, according to the White House.

The statement was apparently designed to answer opposition criticism leveled against Mr. Hoover when he signed the Smoot-Hawley bill acknowledging it had many "inequities" and promising to correct these injustices through his flexible powers.

Independent republicans and democrats attacked his position at that time, saying it would take more than 30 years to consider all the rates of the new law if the commission made no more speed than heretofore.

The White House announcement stated the law contained only 3,221 dutiable items, of which 2,111 were unchanged from the 1922 tariff act; 500 being increases and 235 decreases.

The idea it sought to convey was that the commission is doing well.

Rates shown as having been decreased since the new law went into effect were:

Pigskin leather, from 25 to 15 per cent.

Wood flour, from 33 1-3 to 25 per cent.

Maple sugar, from 8 cents per pound to 6.

Maple syrup, from 5 1-2 cents to 4.

Wool felt hats, from 40 cents per pound plus 75 per cent, plus 25 cents each, to 40 cents, 35 per cent and 12 1-2 cents.

Hat bodies, from 40 cents and 75 per cent to 40 cents and 55 per cent.

Sewed hats, from 50 per cent to 40 per cent and 30 per cent.

Gelatin, 20 per cent and 5 cents a pound to 12 1-2 cents and 5 cents.

Packaged olive oil, from 9 1-2 cents a pound to 8 cents.

Bentwood furniture, from 47 1-2 per cent to 42 1-2 per cent.

Pipe organ, from 12 per cent to 10 per cent and 40 per cent to 35 per cent each.

The following increases were listed: Canned fruit (2 cases), from 45 per cent each to 50 per cent before weaving and 60 per cent after weaving.

Cylinder wire, from 50 per cent to 75 per cent.

Cylinder bells, from 50 per cent to 70 per cent.

Hemp cordage, from 3 1-4 cents a pound to 4 7-8 cents.

Whole eggs, egg yolk and egg albumen, from 18 cents a pound to 27 cents.

Woven wire cloth from 50 per cent to 75 per cent.

No changes were made in the items which furnished the chief source of contention between the opposing factions in congress during consideration of the last bill, but no important items on which no change was recommended are:

Fig iron, cherries, ultramarine blue, cheese, hides and skins, chimes, tomatoes, and hats, blocked and unlabeled.

The commission now is working upon 84 more articles, the report continued. Ten investigations concerning 33 articles have progressed to the hearing stages. Among the important items in this category are: Lumber, boots and shoes, cement, agricultural hand tools, vegetables and animal oils. Most of these items were bitterly contested in congress.

The 51 additional articles upon which investigations have progressed to the hearing stages yet, include:

The cherries investigation was reopened on demand of the president who declared he declined the recommendation of the commission against a change in the duty of the Smoot-Hawley law.

Planes To Take Crews To Fires in Forests

SPOKANE, Wash., July 12. (UP)—Airplanes were ready today to carry emergency fighting crews to fires in any of the northwest's 20 national forests. Most of a series of blazes were under control, however.

Fourteen tri-motored ships, the government's newest defenses against timber blazes, were placed at the forest service's disposal by Nick Namer, Spokane pilot. These ships can be rushed to new blazes a few hours after aerial patrols report them, where days are required by land travel.

Construction of emergency landing fields in strategic positions in Montana, Idaho and Washington beside possible use of ships for this purpose.

BIRMINGHAM SUSPECT JAILED IN BOMBINGS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 12. (UP)—First steps toward discovering the identity of a bombing gang which has taken two lives, injured nine persons, and demolished a barber shop and a number of milk trucks, were believed to have been taken by police today with the arrest of Eldridge McCord, a former city fireman.

McCord, who has maintained a policy of silence since his detention, has been identified by a filling station attendant as the driver of a car which stopped at his place of business shortly after the bombings occurred.

McCord fled the attendant said, when he glanced into the machine's tonneau and saw two machine guns and a box of dynamite. Police think, however, that this car was merely a rear guard for the automobile from which the bombs were thrown.

A sedan of similar model, which the attendant said he observed also, was found abandoned in the eastern part of the city. It carried an Illinois license plate.

In the meantime, $2,000 reward for the capture of the bombers has been subscribed here, $500 of the amount having been offered by the Birmingham Post. Action was taken after a conference between Governor B. M. Miller and city authorities, at which the Alabama chief executive said that "bomb throwers seek to gain a foothold in Alabama they will have one of the most serious victims they have ever encountered."

Nearly all the nine persons injured by the bombings have been discharged from hospitals. After a barber shop was bombed recently, another shop proprietor told police he had been warned by telephone to raise his rates to customers under penalty of receiving similar treatment. He declared that he complied with the demands.

Milk trucks which were the victims of bombers on a number of occasions have been protected by policemen on their trips into Birmingham.

The state officers guarding them were getting on orders of Governor Miller.

KENTUCKY YOUTH KILLED BY BULLET

SOMERSET, Ky., July 12. (UP)—Lisle Lovelace, 20, of Monticello, the third member of his immediate family to meet death by bullets, died today following a disturbance at the store of Lon Guffy, 35, near Monticello.

Authorities quoted Guffy, who was jailed, as saying he shot Lovelace in self defense when the youth made as if to draw a pistol while being ejected from Guffy's store during a disturbance.

Lovelace's brother, Clarence, and their father, Cox, were shot to death 10 and 12 years ago, respectively.

SAN QUENTIN STATE PRISON, Cal., July 12. (UP)—Asa Keyes, former district attorney of Los Angeles county who was convicted on charges of accepting bribes, will be freed from the prison for the last time today, the state prison board decided today.

The board fixed Keyes' term at five years, and decided he should be granted parole for the last two years. With good behavior, a five-year sentence is reduced to three years and seven months.

FLORIDA LEGISLATORS WORK ON TAX ISSUES

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 12. (UP)—The Florida legislature tomorrow will turn into the second week of its second extraordinary session, still seeking the new sources of revenue said by Governor Doyle E. Carlton to be necessary if the state ad valorem tax on real estate is to be eliminated.

Thus far in this session, no revenue bill has passed both houses. Labeling them "special order" the house scheduled for early consideration a proposal to increase the state gasoline tax to seven cents a gallon, to levy a tax on amusements admissions and to tax billboards. Another special order measure sought judicial redistricting to cut down the number of court circuits.

The senate which capped the past week with passage of a biennial general appropriations bill and a measure to reduce state salaries ten to 20 per cent expected to receive the house approval bill setting a tax on cigars.

The levy would be five cents on each package retailing for 25 cents or less, and one cent a package on more expensive cigars.

Revenue from the cigar tax was estimated at $2,000,000 annually. It was one of 13 measures prepared by special house committee which drafted a financial program for the current special session.

With a bill on its calendar to tax luxuries and so-called non-essentials, the house record showed defeat of a resolution that sought to adjudge the representatives against a general sales tax in Florida. The resolution was voted down 44 to 38. A similar resolution, offered at the opening of the 1931 regular session, was adopted 88 to 4.

The luxury tax bill, however, was refused a place on the special calendar.

SIX TO FACE TRIAL IN FLORIDA FLOGGING

CLEARWATER, Fla., July 12. (UP)—Six persons indicted on a kidnapping charge in connection with the flogging of R. W. Oxford, St. Petersburg, will go on trial in circuit court here tomorrow.

A seventh, Wilbur C. Mills, named in the indictment and also one of the state's key witnesses, is in the state insane asylum at Chattahoochee and will not appear at the trial.

The other six are Benny Parlo and Sam Cicciello, Tampa, mechanics, who are charged with doing the whipping; Mrs. Alice Henderson Woods, Tampa, charged with being the decoy for the gang; Paul Nelson and Robert Leisinger, named as accessories, and B. B. Batchelder, carpenter, accused as accessory before the fact in procuring the flogging of Oxford.

Mills had signed a confession in which he had admitted taking money for the alleged abduction of Oxford. He was later identified by H. R. Jamison, Tarpon Springs, as the member of a gang which abducted and whipped him July 9, 1929. Mills was under indictment for the kidnapping of Jamison.

TARZAN AT THE EARTH'S CORE No. 37

Jason Gridley sought to fend off the wolf's jaws as he was borne to the ground. But those jaws never closed upon him. When he struggled to his feet, he saw the girl tugging at her crude knife in an effort to drag it from the jablok's body. Then he realized that she had saved his life. He was filled with gratitude and admiration for the slender girl who had faced this terrible beast so bravely. The four jablok lay dead but the American's troubles were by no means over.

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The fellow happened to be another than Skruk. "Beat it," yelled Gridley in good old American slang. "You ugly mug frighten this young lady." "I am Gluf," growled the Phelian. "I kill." Of course Jason could not understand him either. He did not want to kill the man but he realized he could not let him approach too closely. The girl had no such scruples. She touched his pistol with her finger and then pointed meaningly at Gluf. The fellow was quite near now as Gridley fired, aiming above the man's head.

RAIL, COAL ILLS BROUGHT TO FORE

Government to Tackle Two Trying Problems This Week.

BY WILLIAM C. MURPHY JR.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(UP)—The federal government this week will wrestle with the problems of two of the most important and most depressed of the nation's basic industries, transportation and coal.

The interstate commerce commission will begin hearings Wednesday on the railroads' request for authority to increase freight rates 15 percent while Secretary of Labor W. N. Doak and Commerce Secretary R. E. Lamont, are scheduled to begin conferences early this week with labor leaders on what, if anything, can be done about the soft coal industry. Federal efforts to bring the railroads and the bituminous coal industry out of the economic doldrums are regarded with unusual interest because of the fundamental character of these two economic factors.

Aside from possible changes in rate structures, the railroad hearings and the coal conferences are expected to lay the ground work for legislative proposals which may be advanced to the stage of action during the next session of congress.

The railroads assert they must raise $400,000,000 additional revenue a year in order to prevent a depreciation of their securities and preserve their credit. On the other hand, organizations of commodity shippers are already active in advancing the contention that increased freight rates will mean increased burdens for the consumer, and smaller returns for the producer.

Out of this tangled situation it is anticipated there will come stimulated interest in such measures and railroad consolidation and federal regulation of interstate motor traffic. The latter is said to be responsible for a considerable part of the railroads' woes.

The importance of the questions involved is indicated by the commission's finding that the total value of American railroads is in excess of $24,000,000,000. That is the figure which will be utilized as a rate-making basis during the coming hearings. Incidentally, the commission also found net operating income for Class 1 roads in 1931 was the lowest since 1922, while the number of men employed for that year was the lowest of any year for which the commission has records.

As to the coal situation the commission expressed by bituminous operators during their conference with Lamont and Doak last week has been to the impression little can be

Delegates to the 11th annual convention of the Southern Wholesale Confectioners' Association will be arriving in Atlanta tonight. The convention opens Tuesday at the Ansley hotel, and the entertainment program includes two business luncheons, a golf tournament, a matinee at the Fox and other features.

Plans for the Georgia-Made Products Exposition, to be held here during the week of July 27, will be done by mutual agreement. The basic evil of overdevelopment, it is felt, has progressed so far in the bituminous industry that drastic measures will be required to restore stability. An industry which has produced more than 12,000,000 tons a week is now confronted with a market that will not absorb more than 5,000,000 tons.

Operators take the position competition from non-unionized fields precludes union wage scales and decreased consumption prevents giving work to thousands of miners even at reduced wages. The union position, on the other hand, is that uniform acceptance of the union scale would stabilize the industry and prevent cutthroat competition among operators.

To this has been added the suggestion of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the anti-trust laws should be amended to permit the closing down of what he calls the "uneconomic" mines, those where operating costs are high, and the restriction of production to demand.

pushed this week. Business leaders have expressed the opinion that Georgia products will receive increased popularity as the result of the show.

No Rainfall in Sight For Drouth-Ridden City

Rainfall deficiency this month, 1.02 in. Rainfall deficiency this year, 14.02 in. Maximum temperature Sunday 85 degrees. Temperature 1 year ago, 103 degrees.

With the deficiency in rainfall for 1931 already nearly twice that for the same period in 1930, the weather bureau Sunday held out little hope of a heavy rain to bring things back toward normal.

Sunday's temperatures were moderate, but no rain fell, and the forecast from Washington calls for generally fair weather all of this week. C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist, said that he did not make a forecast Sunday, but when he left the office Saturday there was no rain in sight for Atlanta.

The rainfall deficit for July to date is slightly less than the 1.87 inches of deficiency for the same period last year, but the 1931 deficit is 14.02 inches as against 7.08 inches for the same period of 1930. Where 20.05 inches of rain had fallen by July 12, 1930, only 13.71 inches have been recorded this year, and of that, only 25 has fallen this month.

Garrett, Kansas City's "good-will" fliers, who will arrive at Candler field at 5 o'clock this afternoon, will be entertained at 7 o'clock tonight with a dinner given by the Chamber of Commerce at the Ansley hotel. Dr. Brock, a businessman, holds the world record for consecutive flights. He has made more than 600 flights in as many consecutive days. Flying is his only recreation. Colonel Garrett and Dr. Brock are visiting all state capitals in the United States, as well as other important cities, for the purpose of carrying messages of good will from Kansas City and Missouri, and to promote the cause of commercial aviation.

Filipinos Hold Huge Demonstration To Express Desire for Independence

MANILA, July 12.—(AP)—Filipinos held a huge demonstration here tonight in an attempt to further convince United States Senators Pittman, of Nevada, and Hawes, of Missouri, that the people of the islands were united in their desire for independence.

Filipinos paraded past the senators, who reviewed them from a stand in front of the legislative building. Many carried posters in English, Spanish and Tagalog (native language), asserting they were economically prepared and asking for liberty or death, and independence at any price.

Newspapers estimated the crowd along the line of march at between 100,000 and 250,000. Only a fraction of those in the parade were able to pass the reviewing stand, as poor police control allowed the throng to overrun the street and so impeded progress of the parade it was finally stopped.

'Hurricane Screen' Excites Interest At High Museum

Sunday visitors at the High Museum of Art, numbering several scores, were much interested in a "Hurricane Screen" just put on display there. This dates from colonial days. It is made of glass in a wooden frame and is about 20 inches high and 18 inches in diameter.

In days when candles formed the sole means of illumination screens such as this were placed in the hallways of homes so that a lighted candle might be shielded within the screen from the breeze of an open door.

Director Lucien P. Skidmore stated that the specimen now on display at the museum—which he believes to be the only one of its type in Georgia—is probably of French origin. The glass between the wooden framework is decorated with exquisitely fragile cut-out designs. The screen was loaned to the museum by Mrs. Mell Smith Knowles, of Hawkinsville.

The exhibition of water colors, block prints, etc., by Chicago artists will remain at the museum through July 15.

SPANISH LAWMAKERS MEET IN MADRID TODAY

An organization meeting of the cortes members will be held tomorrow night and the formal opening of the assembly will take place on Tuesday.

The first task will be the construction of a new constitution for Spain. This, it was expected, might require several weeks and the government of President Alcala Zamora will continue in power in the meantime. After the constitution is completed the assembly will name the members of a new cabinet.

The Irish dramatist is coming to acquaint himself with the socialist construction of the union by visiting the republic. The socialist government recently granted visas to Shaw, Lady Astor and several other distinguished Britons who expected to accompany him.

W. O. Bozeman, Former Worth County Legislator, Jailed in Florida.

MIAMI, Fla., July 12.—(AP)—W. O. Bozeman, former Georgia legislator and Homestead attorney, was held in Dade county jail tonight in connection with the death of Clinton C. Rydell, 37, Miami fireman, who died of knife wounds in a Homestead hotel today.

Physicians said Rydell's throat had been cut and that death resulted from loss of blood. Rydell died a few minutes after arriving at the hospital.

Officers said Bozeman, Rydell and Dean H. Baxter, of Miami, were fishing on Key Largo, William H. Sykes, Homestead policeman, quoted Bozeman as saying "Rydell came on me and I had to cut him off." The officers said the men had been drinking.

Baxter was released by deputy sheriffs after an investigation. Bozeman came to Florida several years ago from Tifton, Ga.

Rydell moved to Homestead 15 years ago from Asbury Park, N. J., coming to Miami two years later. He was at one time captain of the central fire station here, but lately was at a station in an outlying district.

He is survived by his widow, two sons and a daughter, in Miami, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rydell, and a brother, W. A. Rydell, in Asbury Park.

The body will be sent to Asbury Park for burial.
